‘One-man crime wave’ others, out of prison

HB 463 leads to release of three-time DUI convict, persistent felony offender

By Ben Carlson
General Manager

A convict once described by a prosecutor as a “one-man crime wave in Anderson County” was among the nearly 1,000 inmates released by the state Jan. 3 under House Bill 463.

The bill, which was passed to reduce prison costs state-wide, also led to the release of a half dozen people convicted in Anderson County of forgery and drug possession charges, along with one man imprisoned following his third DUI conviction.

Thomas Ray Combs, 31, of Willisburg was jailed in July of 2002 for a host of crimes, including second- and third-degree burglary, second-degree possession of a forged instrument, first-degree fleeing from police; fraudulent use of credit cards and first-degree wanton endangerment.

Combs was released after serving just over nine years of a 14-year sentence.

Although the percentage of people reporting binge drinking was highest among young people, it was binge drinkers ages 65 and older who over-consumed the most often, an average of five to six episodes a month.

We’re No. 1! (in binge drinking)

Researches say 1-in-6 average four episodes each month

By Tara Kaprowy
Kentucky Health News

Kentuckians binge drink an average of about six times per month, more often than people living in any other state, a report by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention found.

Binge drinking is defined as consuming four or more drinks for women and five or more drinks for men on one occasion. Nationwide, 17 percent of adults binge drink, up from 15 percent in a 2009 survey. That’s one in six people, averaging four binges a month and eight drinks per binge.

Excessive and binge drinking “causes more than 80,000 deaths in the United States each year, making it the third leading preventable cause of death,” reports MSNBC. Binge drinkers are at an increased risk for liver disease, heart disease, of being in a car accident and engaging in violent behavior.

The report analyzed data from a 2010 telephone survey of 458,000 adults who described their previous 30 days of drinking.

Local Green Beret retires after 27 years

Hurst advanced to rank of colonel during successful Army career

From staff reports

Army Col. Kenneth J. Hurst has retired after completing 27 years of active duty military service, according to a news release.

Hurst was a Special Forces officer. His most recent assignment was as the chief of plans for US Special Operations Command at MacDill Air Force Base, Tampa, Fla., from 2008-11. In 2009, from March through July, Hurst also served as the deputy commander for the US Special Operations Command, Europe, Stuttgart, Germany.

Hurst entered the Army in 1981 from Lawrenceburg. He served in the Army Reserve’s 100th Division, and in 1st Battalion, 149th Infantry Regiment, of the Kentucky Army National Guard.

Upon graduation from the University of Kentucky in 1985, he was commissioned as a second lieutenant and became an armor officer. His first assignments were in South Korea and Germany, where he commanded a scout platoon and a tank company.

Anderson County Middle School dedicated a Mustang memorial in honor of former teacher Lynda Richardson, an instructor who died at the beginning of this school year.

Richardson had taken a medical leave of absence from the school, principal Gina Fultz said.

“She was a big part of our building, larger than life. It was something that we wanted, something that resembles what she stood for,” Fultz said of the memorial.

Police collar star witness in trial of alleged puppy killer

Angry judge throws suspect in jail as cops beat bushes for girlfriend

By Ben Carlson
General Manager

The trial of suspected puppy killer Paul “Doobie” Dearing is officially on for today (Wednesday), but just barely.

Police in Nicholasville were able to collar what figures to be the prosecution’s star witness in the case, Elizabeth “Beth” Dennis, just hours before a deadline imposed by a judge to postpone the case until March.

Judge Donna Dutton gave police until 4:30 p.m. Tuesday to find Dennis, who claimed in a statement to have witnessed the puppy’s murder following an October 2010 argument with Dearing, her boyfriend at the time.

Police across the region spent several weeks looking for Dennis, both on a subpoena from County Attorney Bobbi Jo Lewis and an outstanding felony warrant for flagrant non-support.

Farmer injured when vehicle smacks tractor

From staff reports

A tobacco farmer in western Anderson County was airlifted to an area hospital after the tractor he was driving was rear-ended by a vehicle Sunday night.

Christopher Conway received a head injury after being thrown from his tractor, but was home by Monday and expected to recover.

Conway was driving his tractor near the intersection of Highway 248 and Fairview Road when a vehicle struck it from behind. The tractor flipped and was struck by a second vehicle.

No injuries were reported to the drivers of either vehicle.

The accident remains under investigation by the Anderson County Sheriff’s Office.

Crimestoppers offered a reward for information leading to her arrest, but it was unclear Tuesday if anyone informed police to her whereabouts.

Dearinger, who was also wanted on a warrant and had missed his previous two court appearances, finally showed up in court Jan. 11 for a pretrial conference, and was promptly thrown in jail and slapped with a $2,500 bond. A clearly unhappy Dutton scolded Dearinger from the bench.

"I don't get angry very often," Dutton said at the conclusion of last Wednesday's hearing. "But you made me about as angry as I've ever been from the bench." Dutton's comments came on the heels of a request from Dearinger's attorney to allow him to post only 10 percent of the $2,500 bond.

"I know you said $2,500 because he didn't come here [for his last court date], but is there any way you'd consider 10 percent? He actually came to court for a long time without any bond on him," said Justin Genko of Stanford. "You can't possibly think that I'm going to give him any leniency after giving this court the biggest runaround," Dutton said. A guilty verdict may not have rested entirely on Dennis' testimony, but Lewis made it clear last Wednesday that it is imperative that she has her in court to testify.

Dutton

"It's my knowledge and belief that Elizabeth Dennis will testify to and prove the fact that [Dearinger] did beat and kill the dog named Buster," Lewis said while asking for the trial to be delayed. "And she will testify about the circumstances surrounding the death and beating of the dog. "This testimony is going to be crucial to the commonwealth's case ... absolutely crucial." Dearinger's attorney argued against putting off the trial until Dennis was found, saying that the commonwealth has already had four weeks to find Dennis and be ready for a trial. "[Dearinger's] going to be in custody, so he'll definitely be here for this trial," Genko said. "It's [the commonwealth's] witness, and they have to get her here at some point." "I knew all along we would have a problem getting this witness to the courtroom because she's his girlfriend," Lewis responded. "If I was able to cross-examine [Dearinger] right now, I bet he can tell you where she's at. Now that he's back here, she's not far." Lewis spoke directly to Dearinger several times, asking him point-blank where Dennis is. Only once did he answer, saying, "I don't know where she is." Dearinger said little else during his appearance, although several times he disputed that he didn't show up for his previous trial date in November. "I was there," he said several times to his attorney, frustrating Lewis. "Judge, he keeps saying he was here that day, but he was not here that day," Lewis said. Dutton agreed, saying, "I was here that day, and there isn't a better witness than me." Dearinger's attorney, who only recently began representing him, leaned over and told him to "stop talking about it," before venting some frustrations of his own. "If I had all that information, I probably never would have come to Anderson County in the first place," he said. Last Wednesday's hearing is the latest in the puppy killing saga that has festered since the puppy, Buster, was found burned beyond recognition and buried at a residence on Dry Dock Road in October, 2010. Once authorities were called, Dennis immediately fingered Dearinger for stomping on the dog before setting it on fire following a heated argument. An arrest warrant was issued for Dearinger, and police finally tracked him down two weeks later in Frankfort. What started as a misdemeanor or cruelty to animals charge was soon increased to felony torture, but a grand jury declined to indict Dearinger on that count. Several months passed before Dearinger was eventually indicted on the misdemeanor charge and was scheduled for trial last November. It appeared he was prepared to enter a plea Nov. 21, but did not show up on time for court. Lewis said Dennis was in court that day and prepared to testify. By December, a new trial date had been set, but Dearinger again missed pre-trial conferences, angering Dutton, who earlier this month said she would hold him in contempt if he failed to show up last Wednesday.

In 1992, Hurst volunteered for, and became, a US Army Special Forces Green Beret. Hurst next was assigned to 5th Special Forces Group (Airborne) at Fort Campbell, Ky., where he served as a company commander and Special Forces Operational Detachment Alpha commander. Next, he was assigned to the American Embassy in Bahrain. After returning to America from Bahrain, Hurst served with the 1st Special Forces Group (Airborne) at Fort Lewis, Wash., as the executive officer at both the battalion and group levels. As the group executive officer, he deployed to the Philippines as the Army Special Operations Task Force deputy commander for Joint Task Force-510, in support of Operation Enduring Freedom-Philippines. Hurst next commanded the support battalion for Joint Special Operations Task Force-North during the invasion of Iraq. The unit was a subordinate element from the 10th Special Forces Group (Airborne), headquartered at Fort Carson, Colo. Hurst next commanded 2nd Battalion, 10th Special Forces Group. His unit was responsible for special operations throughout Northern Iraq, including the cities of Mosul, Kirkuk, Samarra and Tikrit, including operations in direct support of Iraq's first democratic elections. After returning from Iraq, Hurst was assigned to Army Human Resources Command at Alexandria, Va., as the special operations group chief responsible for Army officer branches including Special Forces, Civil Affairs, and Psychological Operations. Hurst's awards and decorations include two awards of the Legion of Merit, the Bronze Star Medal, the Defense Meritorious Service Medal, the Combat Infantry Badge, the Special Forces and Ranger tabs and Senior Parachutist Badge. Hurst has master's degrees in human resources development and in strategic studies. He is a graduate of the Army Command and General Staff College and the U. S. Marine Corps War College. Hurst is a son of Jerry and Shirley Hurst of Lawrenceburg. He is married to the former Darla Shafer, who is a daughter of Donald Shafer of South 500 West, New Palestine, Ind. Kenneth and Darla have one son, Jay, who is a senior and an Army ROTC cadet at the University of Kentucky.

"Although the percentage of people reporting binge drinking was highest among young people, it was binge drinkers ages 65 and older who over-consumed the most often: this group reported an average of five to six episodes a month," MSNBC reports. Though Kentuckians binge drink most often, residents of Wisconsin drink the most alcohol — up to nine drinks on one occasion — and had the highest percentage, 25.6, of people who said they binge drink. Utah and West Virginia has the lowest share of people who say they binge drink, 10.9 percent. New Jersey had the lowest frequency, 3.6 times per month. Meanwhile, a study found drinking alcohol leads to the release of endorphins in parts of the brain that are responsible for feelings of pleasure and reward, says research-reporting service Newswise. "This is something that we've speculated about for 30 years, based on animal studies, but haven't observed in humans until now," said lead author Jennifer Mitchell, clinical project director at the Gallo Center at the University of California-San Francisco. "It provides the first direct evidence of how alcohol makes people feel good." Excessive alcohol consumption costs the country about $223.5 billion per year, "mostly due to lost workplace productivity and increased health care costs," reports Sarah Kiff for The Washington Post. A study by Canadian researchers has found that setting a minimum alcohol price can drive down those costs — and is more accepted by the public than imposing taxes. The researchers found "for every 10 percent hike in minimum alcohol price, they found people drank 3.4 percent less alcohol," Kiff reports. "For certain drinks, the effect was even more pronounced: Increasing the minimum price of wine by 10 percent correlates with an 8.9 percent drop in consumption. "Beer, however, appeared relatively resilient to price fluctuations, with a 10 percent bump lowering consumption a paltry 1.5 percent." England and Wales have passed legislation that prohibits the sale of below-cost alcohol. Scotland is considering a similar move.

During the time leading up to his sentencing, Combs' attorney filed a motion for him to be placed on shock probation that included a written apology from Combs. Former commonwealth's attorney Fielding Ballard strongly opposed that request. "For eight months he was a one-person crime wave in Anderson County," Ballard wrote in answering the motion. "He burglarized three locations, ran from law enforcement, possessed forged instruments, violated traffic laws along with having an unlawful transaction with a minor. "To allow this individual out on the streets of Anderson County would send a message to young people that it's OK to break the law for eight months then say you're sorry." Carl Isham, 40, was released after serving 10 years of a 14-year sentence for repeated drunk driving convictions and other charges. Isham was sentenced in late 2001 for this third DUI, second-degree persistent felony offender and theft by unlawful taking. A man convicted of cocaine and other drug possession charges was released after serving about 4.5 years of a 10-year sentence. Donald Young, 35, was sent to prison in July of 2007 after being convicted of first-degree possession of cocaine, first-degree possession of an unspecified controlled substance, receiving stolen property and second-degree possession of drug paraphernalia.

Also released was Alexander Bowdry, 26, who served 11 months of a three-year sentence after being convicted of first-degree possession of a controlled substance. Sarah Armstrong, 29, served 2.5 years of a five-year sentence after being convicted of second-degree criminal possession of a forged instrument. Robert Buck was released from prison after being convicted of first- and second-degree robbery, first-degree bail jumping, second-degree escape and receiving stolen property. Michael Martin was released after being convicted of trafficking a controlled substance within 1,000 feet of a school.

Keith Nowlin (left) and Charles Woods practice spinning their parade axes Jan. 12. They practice about once a week to be prepared in case they are needed.

Honoring their fallen ‘brothers’

Firefighters come together to form county’s first fire and rescue honor guard

By Meaghan Downs
Staff writer

The funeral of Charles Woods Jr. in 2009 was not the first fireman’s funeral Keith Nowlin attended and participated in.

It was, however, the first time the idea of establishing an honor guard for Anderson County’s fire and rescue squads started to gain traction.

Two years later, after receiving approval from Chief Robert Hume and attending a 16-hour precision drill course in Elizabethtown, Nowlin said Anderson County’s first honor guard is ready to serve.

“For us, we’re bringing back the brotherhood into the fire department,” he said.

Nowlin, a Desert Storm veteran, said the ideas of honor and integrity had always been in his life. Since he almost died for the flag, Nowlin said, he shows honor to it.

Just like he feels compelled to show respect for his fellow firefighters through the honor guard.

“Our main goal is to honor the people who’ve served and honor the community,” Nowlin said of the honor guard.

The fire and rescue honor guard, not unlike the ceremonial and patriotic duties of a color guard procession, focuses on bringing a sense of solemnity for those who gave their lives for their community.

Nowlin, along with fellow firefighters Charles Woods, Bill Curtsinger and Mike Hunter, practice honor guard drill exercises about once a week in order to be prepared in case the group is needed.

If asked, they’ll march in step to post the colors in a Veterans Day ceremony, as the honor guard did at Sand Spring Baptist Church in November.

But as firefighters, they can stand guard around a firefighter’s coffin, and initiate the traditional ringing of the fire truck bell at funerals.

Last Thursday night at the fire station on Carlton Road, Nowlin and Woods practiced spinning aluminum parade axes in unison so that both would snap to attention at the same time.

Axes and pike poles are traditional fireman’s tools, Woods and Nowlin said, so they’re integrated into the honor guard, like the reclaimed fire hose nozzle that serves as the flag holder.

Just as the movements of the honor guard need to be crisp and together, their uniforms must be in sync as well. If one member forgets a name tag, all name tags are removed.

“When you put on that honor guard uniform, people are watching you,” Nowlin said. “Once we put on that uniform, we don’t play pranks or goose each other or act like school kids. We want to lead as an example.”

Both the city and the American Legion Auxiliary donated funds to help members of the honor guard purchase uniforms and materials for their appearances.

Every member of the honor guard must be clean-shaven and well groomed; Nowlin even had to shave off his 11-year goatee for the guard’s Veterans Day event.

“It’s a discipline unto itself,” Woods said.

Woods, who has been a member of the fire department for 35 years, said firefighters must rely on “blind trust,” being ready to lay down their lives for a fellow fireman.

It’s one of those things people don’t understand unless they’re involved in it, he said.

Like the ringing of the bell, a typical tradition at a fireman’s funeral in which a member of the honor guard rings a retired fire truck bell three times as the symbolic “last call.”

“That’s what started the shift and ended the shift,” Woods said.

“I know I’m going to ring this bell and I know what this bell symbolizes,” he said. “It’s the tone of somebody,” he said.

Woods said he was asked how he’d be able to handle being a member of the color guard, when it’s often emotionally difficult for him to attend a fellow fireman’s funeral.

“Well, I’m gonna be up front, crying just like the rest of them,” Woods said.

“And there’s no shame in it,” Nowlin added.

Although the honor guard has only performed its duties at the Veterans Day church service, the guard plans to attend a Legion Auxiliary meeting at the end of the month, and a Frankfort college basketball tournament in March.

All four agreed that they would continue serving in the honor guard as long as they still could.

“Til the day I die, for me,” Nowlin said.

Curtsinger agreed. “I just feel like we’re honored and privileged to do this,” he said.

Child porn suspect gets new court date

Secretariat Drive man facing 70 felony charges

By Lisa King
Landmark News Service

A new pre-trial date have been set a Lawrenceburg man charged with sex-related crimes against children.

Mark Hawks of Lawrenceburg, is facing more than 100 child pornography charges in Shelby and Anderson counties.

In Shelby Circuit Court Monday, Circuit Judge Charles Hickman set Jan. 20 as the next scheduled court date for Hawks, 55, of 402 Secretariat Drive in Lawrenceburg.

Commonwealth’s Attorney Laura Donnell had said previously that Hawks’ Anderson County charges would likely be tried first and that charges in both counties are being handled in Shelby County for efficiency.

Donnell said the charges in Anderson County relate to Hawks allegedly possessing and distributing child pornography from his address here. She said the Shelby County charges are related to him distributing similar images at his place of employment.

Hawks, who was not present in the courtroom on Monday, was indicted in July on 10 counts of first-degree distribution of matter portraying a sexual performance by a minor and 60 counts of possessing matter portraying a sexual performance by a minor, according to documents on file and Anderson County Circuit Court.

All 70 indictments are Class D felonies.

He is facing 40 counts of distributing child pornography in Shelby County.

The charges stem from a Kentucky State Police investigation that began outside Hawks’ home in March.

In his affidavit for a search warrant, Det. Bill Collins said he used the state police Child Protection System to observe files being downloaded to Hawks’ Internet provider address on March 5. He said the files included names consistent with child exploitation files. From there his investigation revealed that Hawks was downloading child pornography.

Collins wrote that he was also able to obtain Hawks’ Time Warner/RoadRunner subscriber information from the company’s headquarters in Herndon, Va., establishing that Hawks was receiving and transmitting files that contained child pornography.

Hawks was arrested at his home in April, and his laptop, BlackBerry phone and a thumb drive were confiscated.

In his report, Collins said that after his arrest, Hawks admitted possessing and distributing child pornography and that he has “sexual desires toward children,” according to documents on file in Anderson Circuit Court.

Higher broccoli prices would help save lives

Health committee has company in slashing jobs, services

Column as I see 'em ... Did you know that every single person who eats broccoli will die?

It's absolutely true, as is the case for anyone who eats carrots, peas or even a sweet ear of corn.

I won't explain these facts, but if you think about them for a few minutes, you'll conclude I'm correct. No, this isn't me picking on vegetables, although broccoli is truly disgusting. Instead, it's to point out the frailties often associated with medical reports. I reviewed one such report this week about binge drinking that concludes Kentuckians are, you guessed it, No. 1.

I won't argue with that conclusion, but I found humorous some of what was contained in the report. Get a load of this epiphany: "A study found that drinking alcohol leads to the release of endorphins in parts of the brain that are responsible for feelings of pleasure or reward," according to research-reporting service Newswise.

Really? Who could have guessed? But what's funnier is the response from the clinical director at the Gallo Center at the University of California-San Francisco, Jennifer Mitchell.

"This is something that we've speculated about for 30 years, based on animal studies, but haven't observed in humans until now," said Mitchell. "It provides the first direct evidence of how alcohol makes people feel good."

That it took 30 years to verify a fact known by every sophomore who has ever filched a bottle grandad's cough syrup from the liquor cabinet suggests someone there just wasn't trying very hard.

That they have been juicing poor animals is a topic for another day, but if they keep it up they may just find themselves in court with Doobie.

Of course the report goes on to discuss the need to increase taxes on booze as a means of getting people to stop drinking it, but instead of saying it's a tax, they've cleverly called it a "minimum alcohol price."

And lo and behold, it works. Sort of. The report said that raising the minimum price 10 percent cut drinking by 3.4 percent, with wine leading the charge by being reduced 8.9 percent.

Beer drinkers, however, bucked that trend by reducing consumption only 1.5 percent.

Now, if they could just create a "minimum broccoli price," perhaps the lives of those who eat that awful stuff could be saved.

Speaking of reducing, they don't want to do so in public, but there's little doubt a health board finance committee is discussing cutting staff hours or even staff members during its questionably closed sessions.

The committee did so again last week, and said only that it plans to have a plan ready for the full health board's consideration when it meets next month.

It's admirable that the committee wants to protect the feelings of those facing the ax by avoiding public discussion, but there's little doubt that some, if not the majority of what's being discussed should legally be done in public.

It's admirable, too, that the committee is griping over having to lay off or cut the hours of existing staff.

This probably won't make its members feel better, but they should know they aren't alone in their efforts.

According to a study conducted by Wolters Kluwer Health, the ongoing recession has forced health departments nationwide to chop, slash and cut budgets and personnel at a steady clip.

The report says that by 2010, 53 percent of local health departments had cuts to their core funding, and that 23,000 health department jobs were cut in 2008-09.

Programs, the stuff like smoking cessation and whatnot, were also whacked, with more than half of local health departments losing at least one.

The report concludes that at the state and federal level, the prospect of regaining funding from on high is bleak, to say the least.

What does that mean for us? Likely a higher tax rate and a shiny new health department building that will have less to offer than the old one, with less personnel on hand to boot.

Those affected programs and the people who run them likely could have survived for years to come in that old building, even if it was a bit cramped.

But with a $120,000 annual mortgage payment accounting for nearly 80 percent of the health department's annual shortfall, that can't happen now.

Diversity doesn't need payment

When I was in the sixth grade, I got paid for embracing diversity.

In the interest of full disclosure, it wasn't real money. Our school's form of currency was the "Ram Buck," a pink index card marked with an imprint of our mascot and used to award students for "good" character and behavior. Counselors would roam the halls, awarding good Samaritans at random.

If you packed carrots in your lunch, you got a Ram Buck. Bring a book to read during study hall? One Ram Buck. The more Ram Bucks you collected, the better chance you had of exchanging 125 of them for one ticket to a St. Louis Cardinals day game.

Therefore, I really, really liked getting Ram Bucks. At the time, I lived in a St. Louis suburb that educated a wide range of students of all races and religions: Jewish, black, Chinese, white, Hindi.

Meaghan Downs
Staff writer

Many of my friends fell into these categories, but I usually just thought of them as the girls I ate lunch with.

One day a counselor came over to our table to give me a Ram Buck.

I was confused; my lunch hit none of the marks for health.

The Ram Buck wasn't for my lunch; the counselor told me I was being awarded for eating lunch at a "diverse" table.

I'd like to say that I thoroughly contemplated the ethical implications of accepting payment for behavior that shouldn't need a Ram Buck incentive.

Pretty sure I took the Ram Buck anyway, though the confusion remained.

For the first time in four years, I got to celebrate Martin Luther King Jr. Day with a day off this past Monday.

And for the first time in a long time, that vivid memory from the Year of the Ram Bucks resurfaced.

Born more than 20 years after implementation of the Civil Rights Act, I can only

Turn children's snow days into grow days

I thought I was ready for winter. Sure, I had plenty of wood. Yes, I had my bag of Winter Melt and the shovel handy. I had the truck inspected and prepped for everything, almost.

The one thing I forgot to do was lube the rubber seals in the car door. Whoops.

Last Thursday night, when we got our first winter weather, I ended up banging on the door with my little lunch cooler to break the ice, and it worked. Needless to say, I sprayed the rubber the next day with olive oil. Standing outside, in the wind and snow is not my idea of a good time.

The kids were all happy to get their first snow day, especially since it was tacked on to a three-day weekend. Parents were all scrambling to figure out what to do with them. I have got an idea: let them grow.

Growing vegetable plants from seeds lends itself to all kinds of indoor activities that both educate and entertain. It doesn't take much space or money to get things growing. You can make pots out of newspaper and use a plastic bin (in the garage) for compost building. It might just get them away from the TV or computer for a while.

Let's start with pot making. Find a soup can and cut layers of newspaper strips an inch and a half longer than the can. Roll the paper around the can and then fold and close up the bottom. You get an instant pot to fill with soil and plant a seed.

The compost is a little more complicated. A plastic bin with drain holes drilled in the bottom works pretty well. Find a tray of sorts to place under it. When building compost you need to remember that ingredients, just like in cooking, are important. Actually, the ingredients are the science that makes it work.

Just remember green and brown. The greens are left over lettuce or other vegetables (without grease or oil) that are scraped off dinner plates or go bad in the fridge. Coffee grounds and egg shells can be added to the mix as well. You can also send the kids outside to grab handfuls of grass.

The greens are rich in nitrogen and proteins that create heat. The heat helps microorganisms grow and multiply. The microorganisms are what break down all the ingredients to make the new soil. The next layer is the brown.

Browns include everything from shredded fall leaves to pine needles and straw. You can even add a little dryer lint to the mix. The browns are carbon or carbohydrate-rich materials that serve as food for the microorganisms. This is what breaks everything down for a final product of rich soil.

It takes a while for this little science project to work to its completion, so really you have an activity to last the rest of winter. Have them read through a few seed catalogues to pick out some seeds to grow.

Herbs, lettuce, spinach and tomatoes are all fun to watch and easy to do.

Now, go find the ice scraper and lube the car doors. January is only half over and more weather is on its way. On the bright side, we only have nine more Mondays until spring. Happy growing.

Services you know about, and some you don't

During the course of daily operations in our office, we respond to calls regarding the duties of the circuit clerk's office vs. the county clerk's office.

I hope the article this month will help clarify the county clerk's duties. Our office is most commonly associated with the annual renewal of your license plate decal and paying yearly taxes on your vehicle, however we have many more duties.

In the motor vehicle department, we license vehicles, collect property taxes annually, transfer titles of vehicles, collect usage tax at time of transfer, notarize documents, file and release liens for lending institutions, junk vehicle titles and issue handicap placards.

We try to educate the public on which forms to use and how to fill them out correctly. Each case can be different and may require additional paperwork to properly complete the transaction.

The election department works daily to register voters and assist with address, name and party changes.

We file and maintain all voter registration cards and update the voter registration system for future use. We provide all forms necessary for a citizen to file and run for office in Anderson County.

Our office maintains, secures and prepares all voting equipment before and after each election. We ensure that all ballots are correct and accounted for before and after each election.

Jason Denny
County clerk

Our office also trains all election officers before each election. We are responsible for delivery and pickup of all equipment and supplies for Election Day.

The county board of elections meets monthly to ensure that each task is being done correctly. It checks each polling location for safety and accessibility, and approves precinct voting locations, precinct boundaries and maps, and is responsible for notifying the voter of any changes.

The recording department is in charge of maintaining all documents that are submitted for recording, such as deeds, mortgages, liens, wills, marriage licenses, articles of incorporation, plats, ordinances and fiscal court minutes, to mention a few. All documents are public record. Our office is currently 50 percent complete with a project that will protect all of the documents in the vault, including plats. Once the scanning project is completed, all documents will be preserved for future generations and will be more readily accessible.

If you have a plat in your possession and are uncertain if it is recorded, please call our office. A plat can be recorded under certain guidelines, however some are scanned for informational use, but all can be accessed from our system.

The history of Anderson County is recorded in our office through these documents.

We provide reports to numerous state agencies and local taxing districts on a daily, monthly and quarterly basis, as well as distribute revenue collected during those times. The office is audited by the Office of Public Accounts numerous times during each year to ensure that all funds are accounted for and distributed properly. All audit reports are published in The Anderson News.

Our office has an open door policy and everyone should feel free to stop by and see me at anytime. If there is a problem, I will look at the issue and guidelines set forth from the state and local governments and determine the correct action to follow.

I will call the appropriate government agency if there is ever any question. If you come in to discuss an issue or just to visit and find my seat empty, just leave a message with one of the deputies, and I will get back to you.

I am in Frankfort two to three days per month training for our new KAVIS computer system, which will replace the old system approximately in mid-2013. We also continue to receive monthly training from state government agencies such as transportation, state board of elections, revenue and library and archives to keep up with changes that continue to take place on a regular basis.

You may contact me at the office at 839-3041. I can also be reached on my cell phone at 502-680-5028 or by text at that same number.

My email address is jason.denny2@kygov. Our fax number is 839-3043.

Visit our website at <http://andersoncountyclerk.kygov> or on Facebook under Anderson Clerk.

Our office is open on Monday from 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m., and from Tuesday - Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

imagine Dr. King's world through the distant lens of history textbooks, recorded speeches and museum exhibits.

We've heard the words before, the many dreams of Dr. King:

"I have a dream that my four little children will one day live in a nation where they will not be judged by the color of their skin, but by the content of their character."

I'd like to be able to answer back to the deceased Dr. King, to affirm without a doubt that his dreams have been realized.

But I don't think my conscience will let me.

From what I read and watch in the news to the comment threads I follow on articles about race, the American concept of racial equality is still a work in progress.

It's been about 12 years since I received that Ram Buck for embracing diversity, and being curious, I checked my former middle school's student handbook to see if those Ram Bucks were still being used.

There's nothing said specifically about incentives for diversity, but the handbook does state that the Ram Bucks are used so that students' "thoughtfulness and responsibility are awarded in an immediate, tangible fashion."

Perhaps this method allows for positive action that students wouldn't otherwise engage in.

But I do hope that tangible means, like Ram Bucks, will not be needed to produce tangible results when it comes to building character, especially when it comes to accepting differences in others.

Of course, I can't put words in Dr. King's mouth.

Then again, he said it better than I could ever write it myself: "The function of education is to teach one to think intensively and to think critically. Intelligence plus character — that is the goal of true education."

Danville Pediatrics opens first satellite clinic in Lawrenceburg

By Meaghan Downs
Staff writer

Danville Pediatrics and Primary Care has opened a new medical practice in Lawrenceburg, its first endeavor to establish a satellite office.

Nurse practitioner Angela Buck, who lives in Anderson County, works at Danville Pediatrics at its main office in Danville, and explained that there was a need for pediatric care in the Anderson County area.

It's the first satellite office for the Danville-based medical office, which was opened in 1976 by practicing physician Dr. Larry Scott.

Dr. Jeremy Dickinson, one of two full-time care physicians at the Lawrenceburg location, said the Danville Pediatrics staff plans to operate the Lawrenceburg satellite office with a rotating schedule of nurses and physicians.

"We try to keep some continuity here for the benefit of our patients," Dickinson said.

Two doctors, Dickinson and Jonathan Ricker, as well as a nurse practitioner, two registered nurses and a front office worker make up the five-member staff.

The medical practice, a 2,000 square foot space located across from Fitness Firm on Glensboro Road, officially opened Jan. 2. Dickinson said about half of the patients that walk in are returning patients, the other half are new customers.

"I may see a handful of Anderson County patients a month [at the Danville location]," Dickinson said.

Danville Pediatrics focuses on medical services for children, Dickinson said, but the practice also offers services for adults and adolescents.

The office also features "same day sick appointment," in which patients can schedule an appointment in the morning, and will be seen that same day.

"That's something we always strive for," Dickinson said of getting patients seen quickly.

Danville pediatrics also offers vaccinations, baby exams, school physical exams and ADHD management.

Patients of the Lawrenceburg satellite office can also take advantage of services offered in Danville, such as an in-house dentist, and bi-monthly visits from a cardiologist, allergist and psychologist.

The office accepts most insurance providers, Dickinson said, including Medicaid patients.

Dickinson said its satellite practice in Lawrenceburg offers Anderson County residents a medical practice with friendly nurses, experienced staff and a comfortable office.

"Hopefully, they'll have a warm and inviting experience," Dickinson said.

Kentucky leaps 20 spots in National Education Ranking

Annual 'Quality Counts' survey shows gains in academic standards

From staff reports

Kentucky's ranking in an annual grading of all states on key education indicators rose dramatically this year, placing the state 14th in the nation for its work on academic standards, the teaching profession and many other variables related to public education.

Each year "Education Week," a national publication that focuses on P-12 education, produces a special issue, "Quality Counts." The report tracks key education indicators and grades states on their policy efforts and outcomes.

Last year, Kentucky ranked 34th in the nation in this annual report.

"Kentuckians should take a great deal of pride in the Commonwealth's standings related to P-12 education," said Gov. Steve Beshear. "Kentucky continues to show measureable progress in education, and the rankings provided in 'Quality Counts' recognize the hard work of teachers, administrators, parents and community members."

"Much of the impetus for Kentucky's high ranking can be traced to 2009's Senate Bill 1," said Kentucky Education Commissioner Terry Holaday. "That legislation set us on a course to become a leader nationwide, and with the support of Gov. Beshear, legislators, teachers, administrators and parents, Kentucky's work in school accountability, teacher training, college/career readiness and stronger academic standards is moving us in the right direction."

"Quality Counts" provides data and information about states' efforts in six areas:

- K-12 Achievement
- Standards, Assessments and Accountability
- Teaching Profession
- School Finance
- Transitions and Alignment
- Chance for Success (an index that combines information from 13 indicators that cover state residents' lives from cradle to career)

States were assigned overall letter grades based on the average of scores for the six categories. This year, Kentucky's overall grade was C+, an improvement over last year's grade and a higher grade than the national average, which was a C.

No states received a grade of A in the 2012 edition of "Quality Counts." The highest-ranking state was Maryland, with a B+. Three states received B grades; five states received B- grades; and five states (including Kentucky) received C+ grades.

ANDERSON HAD 40 SCHOOLS IN 1892

The Way We Were

50 YEARS AGO
Jan. 18, 1962

According to research by Tom Parrot, the coldest day on record here was Feb. 9, 1899, when it reached 34 degrees below zero.

Girl Scout Troop No. 1 was host to a folk dance party at the clubhouse on North Main Street, Tuesday night. Mr. O.B. Goodlett, Mrs. Oscar Cammack and Mrs. Roy Moore assisted Mrs. Thurman Brown, Mrs. Lafe Ardery, and Mrs. Ben Ripy, leaders of the troop.

Jane Yocum was presented a farewell gift as she was leaving to make her home in Burgin.

Carolyn Casey was set to represent the Anderson County Fair and Horse Show in the state competition.

Wyatt Shely wrote in the "Our Heritage" column that in 1892 there were 40 schools in Anderson County.

Their names and enrollment were:

Bond's Mill, 58; Buntain, 46; Raccoon, 24; Royalty, 63; Redman, 18; Anderson City, 24; Munday, 35; Lawrenceburg, 122; Providence, 37; Clifton, 7; McGinnis, 30; Salt River, 31; Hebron, 36; Camden, 65; Gordon, 17; Pleasant Grover, 67; Franklin, 30; Van Buren, 47; Griffey, 21; Lawrenceburg (colored) 107; Ripyville (colored), 19; Georgetown (colored) 58; Alton (colored), 26; Fox Creek (colored), 26; Hickory Grove, 45;

Paxton, 28; Hughes, 50; Tyrone, 86; Union, 21; Stingy, 26; Fox Creek, 40; Friendship, 31; Young, 51; Goodlett, 27; Kays, 22; Snyder, 62; Johnsonville, 40; Tanner, 44; Penny's Chapel, 31; Rutherford, 58; Alton, 40; Herndon, 34; Hedger, 40; Buck Lick, 20; Long, 31; Oak Grove, 26; and Marlowe, 28.

Deaths

Mary Ellen Morris, 63, widow of R.L. Morris; Edd Bailey, 59, retired farmer; Sadie Clay Waterfill, 89, widow of J.W. Waterfill; Walter J. Stratton, 77, retired farmer; J.F. Edington, 84, retired farmer; Hugh T. Collins, 69, Shelby County farmer; Herman Mayes, 77.

30 YEARS AGO
Jan. 21, 1982

New officers, directors and committee chairmen of the Anderson County Chamber of Commerce were pictured on the back page. They were: Paul Vaughn Jr., treasurer; Ralph Homan, Wilmer C. Gash and Paul Hanks, directors; Eugene Williams, merchants committee chairman; Jim Link, director; Charles Williams, vice president; Marvin Edwards, chairman of the board of directors; Jim Marquardt, president; and David Melloan, advertising committee chairman.

Some residents of Lawrenceburg were without water for a time Sunday morning, after the pumps at the Kentucky River pumping station froze. Pumping was resumed about 9 a.m., according to City Engineer Bob Bradshaw, but outlying residents had no water for several hours.

The Wilmer Drury residence at the intersection of Ballard and Puncheon Creek Roads was destroyed by fire. Mr. Drury suffered second-degree burns in the blaze that was believed to be caused by faulty wiring in the bathroom.

Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Sparrow celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary.

Whole fryers were 49 cents a pound at Pic Pac Supermarket. Charmin bath tissue was 88 cents for a 4-roll package with a $7.50 purchase.

Think you're a 'decent' Christian?

If we as Christians go to church every Sunday, try not to do bad things and perhaps even tithe, aren't we pretty much on the path of salvation?

Those are pretty much the things we are called to do, right? That's plenty good for God's standards, right? Well, those things may be important, however, are you actively and personally attempting to spread the word of God to others and the world? If not, maybe you should consider actually following the last words of Christ. Matthew 28:19-20: "Therefore go and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, and teaching them to obey everything I have commanded you."

In David Platt's book, "Radical," he describes modern day Christians as follows: "We live decent lives in decent homes with decent jobs and decent families and decent citizens. We are decent church members with little more impact on the world than we had before we were saved."

"Though thousands may join us, ultimately we have turned a deaf ear to billions who haven't even heard his name."

Ouch! That is harsh but is it not very accurate? David Platt also described believers as, "People who are fit, and free, to do precisely what Jesus told us to do!"

Most people go to church and do the things that I alluded to, not for the glory of God, but to avoid Hell, re: fire insurance.

Our concern should not be how to escape Hell but to avoid the wrath of a righteous and just God.

If we saw and individual drowning, who among us would not throw him a life rope, yet we come in contact with people who are perishing each and every day with great indifference.

I ask you personally what you have done or are doing to follow Jesus' last words?

Platt defines a church as, "a community of Christians each multiplying the gospel by going, baptizing, and teaching."

Are you going anywhere for Christ? Are you baptizing anyone for Christ? Are you teaching anyone about Christ?

Are you willing to follow Christ's command and go and make disciples of all nations?

Drop the phony facade or lose everything

Thanks to the magic of DVR I've been watching the first three seasons of "Mad Men."

Set in the early 1960s, the series is about a New York Madison Avenue advertising firm, centering around one character, Don Draper, who heads the creative department.

He's a fascinating character — aloof, suave and handsome and morally bankrupt. He's married with two kids, but he sleeps with anything in a skirt. It's not uncommon for him to not come home for a few days.

His name's not really Don Draper, but Dick Whitman. His mother was a prostitute who gave him away to his alcoholic father and his wife. His father dies and the wife remarries and Dick has a pretty miserable childhood.

He joins the military and is sent to Korea where, after his commanding officer — the real Don Draper — is killed, he switches dog tags and assumes Draper's identity and deserts the war.

So, Dick, now Don, is a successful ad man. However, because he can't completely shed his real identity, he's constantly looking over his shoulder, on guard lest someone recognizes him as Dick and exposes him.

As creative and brilliant as Don Draper is, even as he's the envy of all the other ad men in his office, he's an imposter. He's Dick Whitman, son of the town whore, and he's constantly haunted by nightmares of the former life he's trying to hide.

Brennan Manning, former Catholic priest and self-confessed imposter in search of his real self, writes about his fake self and how he counts on outside experiences to give him inner meaning.

In his book, "Posers, Fakes and Wannabes: Unmasking the Real You," he writes, "For a long time I hid from my true self by performing in ministry. I constructed a fake identity through sermons, books and storytelling. I convinced myself that if the majority of Christians thought well of me, there was nothing wrong, right? The more ministerial success I experienced, the more convincing the 'Poser' became."

Eventually, Manning came to the conclusion that to rid himself of his poser or imposter ways, he needed to "call the Poser out of hiding," accept him, embrace him and bring him to Jesus.

He goes on to write, "When we accept the truth about ourselves and surrender it to Jesus Christ, we find peace — maybe not the constant emotional experience of peace, but genuine peace still, even when we don't understand it."

Don Draper never gets free (so far in the series).

He does end up telling his wife everything, but only after she finds all his papers that he had locked and hidden away in a desk drawer — and she divorces him.

How tragic. By holding onto his fake self, he loses everything.

In Isaiah 58:1-14, we learn of the improper use of fasting to exalt oneself and failing to fast as God would have it. Isaiah called upon the Jews to be righteous and do God's will.

Fasting was a common practice among the Jewish people of Old Testament times. They did their fasting for religious purposes. This practice of fasting could be done in public (Zech. 8:19) and in private (II Samuel 12:16, 21).

When searching the New Testament, we find Jesus spoke of fasting in Matt. 6:16-18: "Moreover, when you fast, do not be like the hypocrites, with a sad countenance. For they disfigure their faces that they may appear to men to be fasting. Assuredly, I say to you, they have their reward. But you, when you fast, anoint your head and wash your face, so that you do not appear to men to be fasting, but to your Father who is in the secret place; and your Father who sees in secret will reward you openly." In this text, Jesus warned his disciples that the Pharisees did their fasting with the wrong motive. They appeared with sad faces to excite the sympathy and pity of men. Christ tells His disciples if they fast, to be different from the Pharisees and wash their faces and be normal. What God saw in private, He would reward openly.

Jesus, never enjoins fasting nor prohibits it; but does regulate it with saying don't let anyone know that you are doing it. I am convinced that many are praying and fasting over the condition of our nation, knowing that "righteousness exalts a nation." Proverbs 14:34.

Historic district commission moves forward with proposal

By Meaghan Downs
Staff writer

The historic district commission voted unanimously to move forward with its original recommendation for Lawrenceburg's proposed historic district area, only adding one specific provision regarding potential demolition of buildings owned by First Baptist Church.

About 17 Lawrenceburg citizens, many of whom represented First Baptist Church, attended the historic district commission's Jan. 17 public meeting.

After committee members reviewed notes taken during the Dec. 6 public hearing, the Rev. Bob Ehr of First Baptist Church expressed his concern that First Baptist will be limited in its plans for expansion if included in the potential historic district.

"We've been given some assurance that we may not be impeded," Ehr said of the church's plan for expansion and improved handicap access. "We do have some concern about the fact that some of you may not be on that commission five years from now when that decision has to be made," he said.

Wayne Young, member of First Baptist Church, agreed. "We're nervous when there's a broad latitude of judgment," he said.

George Geoghegan, commission chairman, said the commission move forward with its original recommendation, but add a provision to allow First Baptist Church to move forward with its building plan.

The measure was approved 6-0, with member Chris Thompson absent. The proposed historic district area, Pat Summitt shows that even though she is battling early-onset dementia, she can still get worked up during Thursday's game against Kentucky in Lexington.

BACKING PAT

Tennessee coach still giving despite fighting disease

This was one time I wish I had missed the press conference. It is usually a perk when I have the opportunity to work a major college athletic event. It's a time when you get to talk with those highly-paid coaches and some players whose earnings will someday make those coaches comparative paupers.

And, being in the newspaper business, it is always a chance to hobnob with the local - and occasionally the national - heavyweights in the field.

John Herndon
Sports editor

I won't lie. It's a lot of fun.

But I wish I had skipped those 15 or 20 minutes last Thursday. I knew that finding a different angle to as good a college basketball game as you could ever want to see would be difficult.

By now, nearly everyone knows that A'dia Mathies drove through the lane then banked in a shot with 4.2 seconds to go, giving Kentucky a 61-60 win over Tennessee in a sold-out Memorial Coliseum.

Yes, Memorial Coliseum. It was women's basketball, but the Big Blue and Big Orange scratched and clawed in a manner worthy of anything Rupp and Mears could conjure up.

Yet, during the press conference, most of the questions directed at Kentucky coach Matthew Mitchell, Tennessee associate head coach Holly Warlick and players from both teams focused on what happened on the court a few minutes before.

Perched on a press row riser in one end zone through 40 minutes of hoops excellence, I knew the real story was taking place about 25 feet away.

As those gathered in the Memorial Coliseum media room waited for Mathies and teammate Keyla Snowden to arrive, my cell phone went off. My wife, Stephanie, who had been sitting in the stands for the game, messaged, "I just talked to Pat. Got picture with her and autograph."

You didn't have to utter her last name.

She's just Pat.

"Cats Back Pat" shirts that popped up in the Coliseum supported Tennessee coach Pat Summitt, the winningest college basketball coach - 1,084 wins and counting now - men or women. And as everyone knew, she had revealed that she is battling early-onset dementia, Alzheimer's-type late in the summer.

We want to beat the Vols, but we will back Pat.

As Pat entered the arena, the crowd's roar was one usually reserved only for the Wildcats. I joined many along press row in offering heartfelt applause and don't believe I will have to worry about getting a reprimand for cheering at the press table.

That's what Pat Summitt has done in 38 years in Knoxville. She'd made people become serious about women's basketball. If you weren't, her teams

Missed free throws doom 'Cats against Owen

Rebels overcome Anderson, win in overtime

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

There is a reason they are called free.

They are those unguarded shots, taken at the shooter's leisure, just 15 feet from the basket. They might be called free throws, but they were costly Friday night as Owen County dealt Anderson County its first home loss of the season - and second straight defeat - with a 59-50 decision in overtime.

To be sure, the box score would show that Owen was statistically no better than Anderson, hitting 16-of-32 charity tosses to the Bearcats' 8-of-16. That's 50 percent for either team.

But in the fourth quarter and overtime, Owen sank 10-of-16 while the Bearcats hit only 4-of-9. Three of Anderson's five misses were the front end of the bonus situation.

"Any close game will come down to two competitive teams and you are going to get to the line in those close games," Anderson coach Glen Drury said. "You've got to make them to seal deals. Give all the credit to them. When it was crucial, they made them. When it was crucial, we weren't able to make them."

It was a simple explanation for a simple game. And it was dead on.

Anderson had rallied from an early eight-point deficit and had taken a 39-

Lady Bearcats look for regional superiority against South Oldham

Anderson County sophomore Eriel McKee goes for two of her 22 points during last Tuesday's rout of Mercer County. McKee will be called upon for a huge game when the Lady Bearcats host South Oldham in a matchup of Top 10 teams Friday night.

Matchup is first recent Top 10 clash at Anderson

By John Herndon
Sports editor

For the last two years, they have been considered the teams at the top of the Eighth Region.

This season, Anderson County and South Oldham might have even bigger plans in girls' basketball. Both have been in and out of the state's Top 10 in the various polls and when the Rating the State rankings appeared in Monday's Lexington Herald-Leader, South Oldham came in at No. 7 statewide.

Anderson? The Lady Bearcats are No. 8.

Friday, the teams will square off in a contest that could be the first battle of Top 10 teams on Glen Drury Court. It is certainly the first time two Top 10 girls' basketball powers have met in the Anderson gym since the great Lady Bearcat teams of the 1970's played there.

Anderson and South Oldham have had quite a rivalry over the last decade, playing 15 times with Anderson winning eight. Over those 15 games, Anderson has scored 739 points, South Oldham 721. Four contests have been decided by three points or less. Only once - Anderson's 52-28 rout of an ice cold South Oldham team in the 2009 Eighth Region tournament - has the final margin been more than 20 points.

In regional tournament play, South has won three of the five meetings between the schools.

Ironically, even though the teams have been considered the cream of the Eighth Region crop the last two years, they have not met in regional tournament play. In 2010, Anderson defeated Simon Kenton for the title after South Oldham was upset by Shelby County in the first round. Last year, Walton-Verona spoiled what was supposed to be a Lady Bearcat-Lady Dragon party by first

All-star second baseman Brandon Phillips answers fan questions during a previous year's Reds' Caravan stop in Louisville. Phillips will be with the Caravan when it stops in Lexington on Jan. 29.

Reds Caravan coming to Lexington, Louisville

The 2012 Cincinnati Reds Caravan will be making two area stops as part of the annual winter tour according to a news release.

The Reds Caravan kicks off on Thursday, Jan. 26, with three separate touring groups.

The caravan's Southern Tour will be at The Shops at Lexington Center on Sunday, Jan. 29 from 10:30 a.m. until 1:30 p.m.

Scheduled to appear in Lexington are all-star second baseman Brandon Phillips, Hall of Fame broadcaster Marty Brennaman, Reds Hall of Famer Lee May, broadcaster Chris Welsh, Reds' minor league prospect Tucker Barnhart, Reds' assistant general manager Bob Miller and mascot Gapper.

The caravan's Western Tour is scheduled to be at Louisville Slugger Field, also on Sunday, Jan. 29, from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m.

Among those scheduled to appear in Louisville are Reds' manager Dusty Baker, utility player Todd Frazier, former Reds' pitcher and current broadcaster Jeff Brantley, broadcaster Jim Kelch, minor league prospect Billy Hamilton, who stole 103 bases for the low Class A Dayton Dragons in 2011, and Reds' mascot Mr. Red.

Actual appearances are subject to change.

At each stop, the Reds will raffle off two tickets to the 2012 Opening Day game against the Miami Marlins on Thursday, April 5. Fans will also have a chance to purchase tickets to Opening Night, April 7 and Reds Heads Kids Club memberships will also be available.

Representatives from the Reds Community Fund, Cincinnati USA Regional Tourism Network and the Reds Hall of Fame will also be in attendance.

According to the release, fans will also have an opportunity to interact with players, broadcasters and front office personnel. The group will field questions from fans and sign autographs as time allows.

Christian Academy wins two

The Christian Academy of Lawrenceburg boys' basketball team recently defeated Bourbon County Academy Lions, 61-42. It was the second time this season the Rams had beaten Bourbon County Academy. Though the game was played in a cold gym it didn't take long for the game to heat up as it turned into a physical game. Three Ram players scored in double digits with Dillon Harper leading the way with 13 points.

The Rams also defeated the Pendleton County Praisers, a team that came into the game with a record of 15-1.

At half time the score was tied at 24. The Praisers gave the Rams trouble at times with their pressure defense, but the game was close until the end when two of the Praisers starters fouled out, and the Rams were able to pull away with a 56-46 win. Harper was again the team high scorer with 15 points.

Head Coach Cory Robinson said, "This game was a good regional win. We struggled against the press a little, but the team played with a lot of discipline and control."

The surest way to get the word out about your Anderson County team is to have it published on the award-winning sports pages of The Anderson News, the only publication devoted to news and sports in Anderson County.

While our one-person sports department cannot possibly be at everything, teams and individuals can have have information published both in print and online simply by contacting The Anderson News.

Sending sports editor John Herndon a note on our website at www.theandersonnews.com or via e-mail at jpherndon@theandersonnews.com are, by far, the easiest and preferred ways to submit information and pictures.

When the Anderson County High School girls' basketball team played in a Christmas tournament in Florida, results were online soon after the games were over simply because assistant coach Clay Birdwhistell took a few moments to e-mail results in.

When the Anderson boys' basketball team was playing in Bracken County, about two hours away, assistant coach Bryan Hyatt submitted results by e-mail.

Other teams have managers or parents send results by e-mail. Announcements, hunting photos and various other news items are often submitted that way. In a highly mobile society, that is a quick, easy and convenient way to get the word out.

The News also accepts submissions delivered by mail or in person at our office, located at 1080 Bypass South, Lawrenceburg.

All copy and photos are subject to editing and must be submitted by deadlines for consideration.

Sports submissions must reach The Anderson News office by noon on Friday for consideration in the following week's paper. Weekend results can be submitted until 9 a.m. on Monday, but the earlier, the better.

Thank you for making The Anderson News your place for Anderson County sports.

Bearcats going for district's top seed

By John Herndon
Sports editor

Anderson County will get an opportunity to clinch the top seed in the 30th District Tournament when the Bearcats travel to Spencer County on Tuesday, Jan. 24.

Anderson is 2-0 in district play and will take the top spot in the tournament with a victory, no matter what else happens. At press time, Spencer had not played any district games and could win the top seed by winning all of its district battles.

In the Rating the State rankings that appeared in Monday's Lexington Herald-Leader, Anderson was ranked eighth in the Eighth Region, just one notch ahead of Spencer.

Spencer was to have hosted Collins Tuesday night. If Collins won that game and Spencer beats Anderson and then beats Shelby County on Feb. 7, it would throw the top seed into a tie-breaker situation. It is too early to speculate on what could happen under that scenario.

"If we win (at Spencer), it just means that we will come out on Tuesday night (in the district tournament) and wear white uniforms. You have to play somebody and play well," Anderson coach Glen Drury said. "You have got to come out and make simple plays and make foul shots. Anybody can beat anybody this year."

Spencer has struggled a bit, coming in at 5-10 through games of last weekend. The Bears had dropped seven of their last eight, including a 13-point loss to Collins in the Nelson County Christmas tournament. That game does not count in district standings.

Spencer went 25-7 a year ago, winning a district championship for the first time since 1984 and advancing to the Eighth Region championship game before losing to Oldham County. It was Spencer's deepest post-season run ever.

Spencer was hit hard by graduation. Junior guard Brandon Miller is back, however.

"It is an important game," Drury said. "They are going to be ready for us and they will play well on their home floor."

Spencer defeated Anderson twice last year and two meetings in the 2009-10 season went down to the final buzzer before the Bearcats won one on a last-second basket and one when Spencer missed the last shot.

Before going to Spencer County, Anderson will travel to Western Hills on Friday for a game that Drury says has the potential to be tougher than the records would indicate. Anderson, 13-2, would appear to be a strong favorite over the 3-14 Wolverines. Drury, however, says Western Hills has some talent. "They just don't have much experience," he said.

While Western Hills' record is not much, Drury will undoubtedly point to an 8-point loss to Owen County the first week of the season and a 5-point setback at Montgomery County, one of the favorites in the 10th Region.

Tipoff for both games is 7:30 p.m. Junior varsity games will tip off at 6 p.m.

Anderson explodes, routs Washington County

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

Anderson County got 18 points from Jay Smith, while Ross Cox and Lowell Gordon added 14 and 13, respectively, as the Bearcats routed visiting Washington County, 74-55, Saturday night.

Anderson trailed only once at 3-2 and took total control of the game with a 12-0 run late in the second quarter. A 17-2 outburst over 3:14 of the third quarter turned the game into a rout. Anderson led 53-38 after the uprising.

"I like how the kids responded after a tough loss," Anderson coach Glen Drury said, referring to the Bearcats' overtime loss to Owen County Friday night. "We had some different circumstances tonight. We had games on back-to-back nights and the kids responded well."

While a loss would end a team's season during tournament time, Drury noted that a team might have to play on successive nights in the post-season. It is all about development.

Anderson had beaten Washington County, in overtime, in the season-opener at Springfield, but the Bearcats were missing many football players, whose season had not ended at that time. Anderson was at full strength Saturday and rolled past a pesky Washington team that provided some different challenges than the Bearcats had been facing.

Anderson County's Jay Smith looks to start the Anderson fast break against Washington County Saturday night.

The Commanders shot 44 percent from 3-point line, forcing the Bearcats to pay a bit more attention to the perimeter. But even moreso, Drury was happy to see the Bearcats forced to attack Washington's 2-3 zone defense. "Our ball movement had become stagnant at times. We have not seen a lot of zone this year. It was a plus for us to see the zone."

Drury was also glad to see the Bearcats go inside more to Cox, Spencer Ruggles and starter Austin Hall. Ruggles scored nine points, while Hall added five.

"Our ball movement was much better tonight. We were able to find the shot we are supposed to shoot."

Anderson led 19-13 after the first quarter. The Bearcats turned the 12-0 second quarter run into a 36-19 advantage before Washington's Kyle Curtsinger got a putback just before the halftime buzzer.

After Washington got within 36-26, The Bearcats went on their 17-2 spree with six different Bearcats registering points. The lead grew to as much as 71-37 midway through the fourth quarter.

Again, Drury saw it as part of the development for his team.

"There are a lot of teams that can win (the Eighth Region). We have a shot," Drury said. "But for us to be successful, we have to hit on all cylinders."

The Bearcats were Saturday night.

McKee 'off the charts' against Mercer

Lady Bearcats impressive against region contender

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

It only looked like Eriel McKee was a one-girl wrecking crew against Mercer County last Tuesday.

It is true that the Anderson County sophomore ripped the visiting Titans for 22 points and pulled down 14 rebounds. It is also true she blocked five shots as Anderson rolled to a 58-32 win. And it was not much of an exaggeration when Anderson coach Tony Kays just chuckled and said, "Eriel was just off the charts in every category tonight."

McKee slashed through the lane for baskets. She sank short jumpers. She seemingly came out of nowhere to grab rebounds, block shots or come up with a steal.

"She just gave us everything," Kays said.

But as good as McKee was, last Tuesday's win might have been the Lady Bearcats' best performance since a trip to Florida before Christmas. Whatever the case, it was Anderson's best night since before dropping a 51-47 decision to the same Mercer County team on Dec. 29 at Mercer.

"That was our first game without Destiny (Stewart, the team's point guard for the last two years)," Kays said. "That was a big difference."

"They beat us before, so that gave our kids some motivation, too," Kays said.

Whatever the case, Anderson only trailed at 1-0 and led by as many as 27 points (41-14) midway through the third quarter.

"We shot 14 percent," said Mercer coach Chris Souder, whose team fell to 11-4. "You aren't going to beat many teams when you shoot 14 percent. We had some great shots but did not make them."

Part of it was undoubtedly the fact that Mercer simply did not play as well as it can. However, part of it was also Anderson's defense. The Lady Bearcats were not spectacular - save for McKee - but they thoroughly disrupted Mercer's attack. By the second quarter, the Titans were often looking for the Lady Bearcat defense as they shot. Most of those rushed attempts were well off the mark.

"I thought our defense set the tone early," Kays said. "We were focused and we forced them to take rushed shots."

Indeed. After Mercer's Catheryne Claunch sank a free throw just 18 seconds into the game, it would be almost four minutes before the Titans scored again. By that time, McKee had six points and Makenzie Cann has drilled a 3-pointer to put Anderson up 9-1.

With 14.5 seconds to go in the first quarter, McKee drove the lane for an old-fashioned three-point play to make it 16-4. The lead stayed in double digits the rest of the night. By halftime, Anderson was leading one of the 12th Region's best teams 32-14.

For all practical purposes, it was over.

"At halftime, I wanted to see how our girls would handle adversity," Souder said.

While Mercer never threw in the towel, the Lady Titans could make little dent in Anderson's advantage. According to the KHSAA website, the margin of defeat was Mercer's worst since losing to Lincoln County by the same 26 points on Feb. 5, 2010.

Anderson improved to 12-4 and got nice games from Jessica Rice, who had moved into the starting lineup, with six points. Sydney Brown scored 8 and Cann tallied 9.

Claunch and Savannah Taylor led Mercer with 9 points each.

Lady Bearcats romp past Spencer

From staff reports

Anderson's girls steam-rolled host Spencer County, 90-12, Friday to run its 30th District winning streak to 19 games.

Anderson took care of business early to up its record to 14-4. The Lady Bearcats led 20-4 after a quarter, then outscored Spencer 29-2 in the second frame. "I really like the focus our kids have right now," said Anderson coach Tony Kays. "We executed at a very high level against Spencer in all areas."

Ten different Anderson players scored, including five in double figures. Eriel McKee led Adnerson with 20 points.

Spencer fell to 4-11. The teams will meet again in the first round of the 30th District Tournament in late February.

Game with Magoffin canceled

A contest with Magoffin County, set for the Shooting for the Cure classic at Louisville Male High School on Saturday, was canceled.

Magoffin, considered one of the better teams in the mountains this year, was forced to cancel after last week's snow postponed the 15th Region All-A Classic. That tournament's makeup games were played Saturday, forcing Magoffin to stay home.

Shooting for the Cure organizers tried to find a last-minute replacement team but were unable to do so, according to Anderson athletic director Rick Sallee.

would embarrass you over and over again. And she'd done it with class every one of those 38 years.

"I thought the reception given to Coach Summitt was excellent," said Anderson County native Lee Ann Clark, who has worked on the UK women's stat crew for years. "I think fans of women's college basketball are truly appreciative of greatness, regardless of rivalries."

During the game, my wife had sent me another message, "I almost cried when she walked in and the whole place erupted. It was an amazing feeling to be here and feel that," she said.

But even when you know if anyone can battle the dread disease it's Pat, there were signs things were not the same.

While a missed walking call in front of the Tennessee bench prompted Pat to quickly give one of the officials a going over, one could not help but notice that during timeouts, Warlick did most of the talking after huddling with Pat and former UK coach Mickie DeMoss, now in her second tour as an assistant at UT.

There could be no denying that many wondered if this was the last time we would see Pat coaching in Memorial Coliseum.

And now, I wish I would have skipped the upsetting South Oldham, 47-45, in the regional semifinals. The next night, Walton-Verona pulled another upset by beating Anderson, 40-39, in the final.

This year, it should be no different. While Walton-Verona has been turning heads again, Anderson and South Oldham were considered at the top before the season started and have done little to cause anyone to think otherwise. In the Rating the State, South Oldham is listed as a half-point better than Anderson.

Such a slight margin might come from South Oldham's seniors, Jasmine Whitfield (a 5-foot-10 guard) and Mary Dye (6-2 post player), who have been four-year starters for coach Frank Wright's team. Whitfield, who has signed with Cincinnati, is averaging 21.2 points a game and is hitting 47.2 percent of her shots. Dye is scoring at 10.9 points a game and pulling down 9.4 rebounds. Emily Housley is scoring just below double figures.

Anderson's Eriel McKee has been on a recent tear, becoming even more of a scorer as sophomore classmate Makenzie Cann has had to take over point guard duties since a knee injury to Destiny Stewart just after Christmas. However, Cann is one of the top 3-point threats in Kentucky and both members of Anderson's duo are considered to be in the top 10 players of their class statewide.

Much of Friday's game could

Bearcat-Dragon showdown on radio

The Anderson County-South Oldham girls' basketball game will be broadcast on the internet at www.pegasussportsky.com on a delayed basis. The South Oldham radio team broadcasting can be found on the Pegasus Sports website by clicking on the South Oldham logo. The broadcast will be available after 12 a.m., Jan. 21.

depend on how Anderson's Sydney Brown, a Division I (Jacksonville State) signee herself, is able to score and control Dye inside.

It will also be interesting to see how Anderson coach Tony Kays defends Whitfield on the perimeter. Will he go with Corrin Robinson, who normally draws the assignment on the opponent's top perimeter player but would be giving up eight inches in size, or will he go with McKee, the one Lady Bearcat with the quickness to confound the South Oldham star, but give up McKee's stellar board work in the process.

A year ago, South whipped the Lady Bearcats in Crestwood, 73-63, but the Lady Dragons have not won at Anderson in over a decade.

The showdown tips off Friday at 7:30 p.m.

Lady Bearcats take on Tates Creek for second time

The Lady Bearcats will look to beat Tates Creek for the second time this season in the East Jessamine Coaches vs. Cancer Classic on Saturday at East Jessamine High School. Tipoff is scheduled for noon.

Anderson defeated Tates Creek, 61-34, at Bryan Station on Dec. 10.

move to 11-7 and beat Anderson for the second straight season. The latter is something that Owen has not accomplished in 30 years.

But Owen has evolved into one of the Eighth Region's better programs over the last decade, often scaring the bejeesbers out of some of the region's heavyweights. This year, Drury said, Owen has what it takes to take that final step. "I think they can win the region," he said. "They are the biggest team in the region."

And Williams, a senior who is in his fourth year of starting, is the biggest of the bigs. At 6-foot-7, Williams was unstoppable in the second half, scoring 18 of his game-high 22 points. He also pulled down 19 rebounds.

But it was his work at the line that sent Anderson home unhappy Friday night. Williams hit 12-of-20 but sank 8-of-12 in the fourth quarter and overtime.

"He'd been hitting about 50 percent," Owen coach Devin Duvall said of Williams, who is just rounding into basketball shape after suffering a football injury. Owen, which had not led since the 5:14 mark of the third quarter - it had been tied twice - pulled even when Williams hit the first of two free throws with 8.4 seconds left in regulation.

Anderson had one final chance, but Seth Carmichael was called for his fifth foul, a charge that drew Anderson's ire, with 3.6 seconds to play.

The overtime was all Owen as Williams scored on the first two possessions.

Anderson's only points in the extra period came on Jay Smith's free throws with 1:59 to play. The final margin was the longest lead either team enjoyed on the night.

Owen had been able to slow Anderson's outside game somewhat. "We knew that Laswell and Gordon are shooting it phenomenal from the outside," Duvall said.

"We have to establish an inside game," Drury said. "It is not brain surgery. When people come to Anderson County they know we have 3-point shooters."

Laswell sank five threes, but needed 14 attempts to do so. His 15 points led Anderson and kept the Bearcats within striking distance early. Gordon, the state's second leading three-point shooter was limited to one bomb and seven points.

Austin Hall led Anderson with 13 rebounds.

But in the end, Owen did the little things it needed to do to win. "They hit their free throws when they needed them and we didn't," Drury said. "Give Owen County all the credit."

MASTER COMMISSIONER'S SALE

In order to comply with the orders of the Anderson Circuit Court, the Master Commissioner will sell the property described in the following actions on Thursday, January 26, 2012, at 11:00 a.m. in the Anderson County Courthouse, Lawrenceburg, Kentucky. The property shall be sold to raise the amounts herein-after set forth, together with interest and the costs of this action, and upon the following terms and conditions (unless otherwise indicated):

(1) At the time of the sale, the successful bidder shall either pay cash or make a deposit of ten percent (10%) of the purchase price, with the balance on credit for thirty (30) days. In the event the successful bidder elects to credit the balance, he or she will be required to post bond and furnish surety acceptable to the Master Commissioner. The bond shall be for the unpaid purchase price and bear interest and the rate of twelve percent (12%) per annum until paid in full.

(2) PLEASE NOTE: The real estate SHALL BE SOLD SUBJECT TO ALL city, state, county, and school real estate taxes, whether current or delinquent.

(3) Where the real estate has insurable improvements, the successful bidder shall, at his or her own expense, carry fire and extended coverage insurance on said improvements from the date of sale until the purchase price is fully paid, to the extent of the Court appraised value of said improvements or the unpaid balance of the purchase price, whichever is less, at a minimum, with a loss clause payable to the Master Commissioner or the appropriate Plaintiff. Failure of the successful bidder to effect such insurance shall not affect the validity of the sale or the successful bidder's liability thereunder, but shall entitle, but not require, the Plaintiff(s) to effect said insurance and furnish the policy or evidence thereof to the Master Commissioner, if it so desires, and the premium thereon or the property portion thereof shall be charged to the successful bidder's cost.

(4) The property shall otherwise be sold free and clear of any right, title and interest of all parties to the action and of their liens and encumbrances thereon excepting easements and restrictions of record in the Anderson County Clerk's Office, and such right of redemption which may exist in favor of the United States of America or the Defendant(s), and any matters disclosed by an accurate survey and inspection of the property.

REQUEST FOR PROPOSALS FOR ENGINEERING SERVICES JOY STREET STORM WATER DETENTION BASIN PROJECT

The City of Lawrenceburg seeks to procure professional engineering services in connection with the Joy Street Storm Water Detention Basin Project that may include items set forth in the following scope of services:

Project evaluation, pre-design, design services, bidding services, construction management, and associated services as may be required by various funding agencies relative to the proposed project. The project may involve the following:

•A study of the Joy Street area and review of preliminary plans developed by the City

•The development of a plan for demolition of the house located at 157 Joy Street and the construction of a detention basin.

•Engineering design to within the scope and budget.

•Development of Plans and Specifications

•Bidding services, construction management and associates services as they relate to the tasks listed above

All documents must be SEALED and MARKED ON THE OUTSIDE "REQUEST FOR PROPOSAL LAWRENCEBURG JOY STREET STORM WATER DETENTION PROJECT." Submittals in excess of 10 single-sided pages will not be considered. The City reserves the right to evaluate the responses submitted, to waive any informalities and irregularities therein, or to reject any or all submittals should it be deemed in the best interest of the City. The City reserves the right to negotiate with any, all or none of the Respondents. Responses will be reviewed and scored by a Review Committee according to the Evaluation Criteria set forth above. The Review Committee expects to meet promptly following the submittal due date.

The following Evaluation Criteria shall be applied in the selection of the engineering/architectural firm:

- 1.Ability of Firm to perform the required tasks within an allotted time-frame: 20 pts
2. Experience of proposed principals: 20 pts.
3. Recently completed projects of similar scope: 30 pts.
4. Familiarity and understanding of CDBG requirements: 10 pts.
5. A brief profile of the Firm's history, principals, staff and facilities: 10 pts
6. Understanding of the Joy Street Storm Detention Project: 10 pts

On-site interviews may or may not be conducted. Upon completion of scoring all responses, the review committee may determine the need for project specific discussions to be conducted with those firms receiving the highest point rankings. Should this occur, formal notification will be issued to the affected parties. All respondents will be notified of the final outcome of this process. Minority firms are specifically invited to participate in this process.

Funding for this project will come from a combination of local funds and Community Development Block Grant Funds. The formal solicitation of engineering firms is being conducted to fulfill the requirements of the funding agency.

Consultants should be aware of and comply with the following:

•Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 (amended 1972) states that it is unlawful for an employer to discriminate in employment because of race, color, religion, sex, age, (40-70 years) or national origin

•Executive Order No. 11246 on Nondiscrimination under Federal contract prohibits employment discrimination by contractor and subcontractor doing business with the Federal Government or recipients of Federal funds. This order was later amended by Executive Order No. 11375 to prohibit discrimination on the basis of sex.

•Section 503 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 states:

The Contractor will not discriminate against any employee or applicant for employment because of physical or mental handicap.

•Section 1012 of the Vietnam Era Veterans Readjustment Act of 1973 requires Affirmative Action on behalf of disabled veterans and veterans of the Vietnam Era by contractors having Federal contracts.

•Section 206(A) of Executive Order 12086, Consolidation of Contract Compliance Functions for Equal Employment Opportunity, states:

The Secretary of Labor may investigate the employment practices of any Government contractor or subcontractor to determine whether or not the contractual provisions specified in Section 202 of this order have been violated.

Disadvantaged Business Enterprise (DBE)

requirements shall be satisfied by the selected firm.

Firms are required to include proof of insurance coverage for errors and omission and professional liability insurance. The insurance must be from a company rated A or better according to A.M. Best. The minimum coverage shall be $1,000,000. The firm selected will be required to submit an original certificate of insurance as evidence of such coverage listing both the owner and project manager as additional insureds.

Submittals shall include a statement on the firm's ability to provide professional services listed above. Evidence shall be submitted in the form of project profiles and recently completed relevant projects of similar scope. Descriptions of previous projects must identify the firm's principal and staff who were primarily assigned to such projects along with owner representative and contact numbers.

The City of Lawrenceburg will enter into negotiations with the highest ranked firm to execute a professional services agreement. If the parties are unable to negotiate a satisfactory agreement, the second ranked firm will be contacted. This procedure may be repeated as many times as necessary until an agreement can be negotiated that is satisfactory to both parties. Once a firm has been selected, all unsuccessful firms will be promptly notified.

Engineering firms desiring to provide these services should submit FOUR copies of their Proposal to: Larry Hazlett
City of Lawrenceburg
P.O. Box 290
Lawrenceburg, KY 40342

Electronic submission of Proposals will not be accepted.

Statement of Qualifications must be received by 4:00 PM local time on January 25th, 2012

Questions concerning this RFQ should be addressed to Larry Hazlett, at City Hall or by calling (502) 839-5372.
